Respondents 2 to 7 are formal parties.

.....

CORAM: A.M.KHANWILKAR, J.

APRIL 7, 2006.

P.C.

1. Heard Counsel for parties. Perused the relevant documents on record.

2. In my opinion, this is not a fit case to exercise revisional jurisdiction. For, this Revision takes exception to the discretionary order passed by the Court below. The Court below has exercised the discretion for good reasons recorded in the order. Hence, no interference is warranted. Dismissed.

3. As the Appeal has remained pending for long time because of the pendency of the present Application in this Court, the Appellate Court is directed to finally dispose of the Appeal as expeditiously as possible, preferably by end of December 2006.
